on Tuesday and are at home at 874 East Second South street, where there will be a house warming before the holidays are over; but in the meantime their many friends are welcoming them to the young married fold. They have been the guests of honor at several informal affairs during the week, and at an elaborate dinner given by James A. Pollock at the Utah on Thursday.

Here is one that goes best in automobile circles:

"Vell, my son has got locomotor ataxia."
"Is dot so? My boy Abe bought a Buick."

Dr. W. A. McEnery, his ward, Miss Isabel McLaughlin, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Grotton, arrived here direct from dear old Lunn on Tuesday evening and left hurriedly for San Francisco the following day.

Miss McLaughlin has developed into a charming and beautiful young woman since her last appearance in her old home, and the Doctor looks as chipper as of yore, the arduous labor of caring for the McLaughlin estate apparently not weighing heavily on his shoulders.

"Oh! Oh! Oh! You Beautiful Doll!" The fun you started when you decided that you would be on exhibition at the banquet hall at the Utah Hotel was considerable and the ladies who worked so hard to make you the success you were are entitled to all of the credit that usually attends any affair in which they have a hand.

Among those who were principally instrumental in the success of the affair were Mrs. Edwin F. Holmes, Mrs. W. H. Cunningham, Mrs. W. W. Armstrong, Miss Georgina Webber, Mrs. Gannett, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. John Dern, Mrs. T. G. Webber, Mrs. George Y. Wallace, Mrs. E. A. Wall, Mrs. David Keith, Mrs. W. S. McCornick, Mrs. Thomas Kearns, Mrs. W. V. Rice, Mrs. George P. Holman, Mrs. W. P. Kiser, and the Misses Eleanor Stewart, Virginia Beatty, Aileen Macmillan, Norinne Thompson, Mary Marshall, Marguerite Stewart, Lucile Clark, Margaret Walker, Josephine Weil, Grizelle Houston, Bryan Houston, Isabelle Shiffer and Eliza Dey.

The Saunterer does not remember exactly who the winners of the raffled dolls were, except, of course, that Mrs. Edward S. Ferry was awarded "The Twins."

A beautiful wedding of Wednesday was that of Miss Amy Osborne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Osborne, and Dewight Ross Hart-
